“This recognition underscores our continued innovation in using AI to drive performance and support sales teams at every level,” said Matt Sunshine, CEO at The Center for Sales Strategy. “We’re honored to be named among the top companies helping redefine how sales professionals are coached, supported, and empowered through intelligent technology.”

This new award category highlights organizations offering cutting-edge solutions that leverage AI to deliver personalized coaching, real-time learner support, and reinforcement strategies. Training Industry’s selections are based on the companies’ innovation, capabilities, and impact in the corporate learning space—especially in how AI is applied to drive results and improve performance.

“At The Center for Sales Strategy, we blend technology with human insight to help sales professionals reach their full potential,” said Stephanie Downs, SVP at The Center for Sales Strategy. “Being named to the 2025 Top AI Coaching & Learner Support Tools list reflects our dedication to creating tools that support ongoing learning, coaching, and behavioral change.”

Training Industry’s newly segmented Top AI in Training Companies Lists are designed to guide corporate learning and development (L&D) leaders as they navigate the rapidly evolving marketplace. In recognizing AI Coaching and Learner Support Tools separately from AI Content Creation and Authoring Tools, the organization brings clarity to how AI is being applied in distinct, impactful ways across the training landscape.

Selection to the AI in Training lists was based on the following criteria:

- Scope, quality, and extent of AI capabilities
- Market presence, brand visibility, innovation and impact
- Strength of client portfolio and customer relationships
- Business performance and growth trajectory
