provider of AI-powered relocation technology, has announced a strategic partnership with AltoVita, a multi-award winning corporate accommodation solution for extended stay and relocation. The collaboration integrates AltoVita's global temporary housing inventory of 7 million vetted housing options and booking technology directly into Relocity One and Relocity Guide, offering a frictionless, end-to-end experience for relocating employees.

“Relocity is thrilled to partner with AltoVita, a true leader in the corporate housing space,” said William Taylor, Senior Vice-President, Business Development at Relocity. “This integration is a game-changer, elevating the end-to-end housing experience from a simple logistical task to a strategic first step in an employee's new life. By embedding AltoVita's vetted inventory directly within our AI-powered platform, we're not just providing a place to stay; we're guiding employees to land where they truly belong, right from the start.”

The integration addresses persistent industry challenges, such as:

- Accessing curated and vetted housing options filtered through Relocity's proprietary neighborhood and lifestyle data
- Considering critical factors such as school districts, commute preferences, and long-term livability, all during the temporary housing selection phase
- Avoiding the common pitfalls of “wrong neighborhood” moves that lead to dissatisfaction and costly transitions
- Receiving timely, contextual information through AI-enhanced technology, eliminating the need for clunky pdf guides and email back-and-forths

Instead, users will benefit from a curated experience where booking temporary housing is guided by AI, location intelligence, and lifestyle relevance, right inside the digital relocation journey found within the Relocity app.

"This partnership with Relocity represents a powerful alignment of vision and values," said Vivi Himmel, CEO & Co-founder at AltoVita. "We're united by a shared commitment to innovation, a deep understanding of evolving employee needs, and a human-centric approach to global mobility. By actively embedding our technologies into our clients' ecosystems and fostering purposeful synergy, integration, and combined operation, we're shaping a seamless journey for employees, one that is smarter, more intuitive, and genuinely supportive at every step."

This partnership is part of both companies' larger commitment to technology-driven innovation in global talent mobility through a more integrated partner ecosystem for modern global mobility programs.
