Covid-19 scenario-

The global property insurance market saw a stable growth during the COVID-19 pandemic, owing to the economic slowdown, unpredictability in global financial sectors, and highly volatile market.

Investors witnessed immediate effects on their current portfolios, which had an influence on insurance companies.

According to insurers and their associations throughout the world, a majority of policyholders do not have house insurance that can cover business interruption losses brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic. Business income insurance is typically offered in conjunction with commercial property insurance as an optional policy. It typically only kicks in when there are damages to physical property.

The report offers a detailed segmentation of the global property insurance market based on coverage, end user, application, and region. The report provides an analysis of each segment and sub-segment with the help of tables and figures. This analysis helps market players, investors, and new entrants in determining the sub-segments to be tapped on to achieve growth in the coming years.

Based on coverage, the fire and theft segment accounted for more than one-fourth of the overall property insurance market in 2021, and is projected to lead the trail by the end of 2031. However, the floods and earthquake segment is expected to grow at the fastest CAGR of 11.7% in 2031. The report also analyzes segments such as house damage, personal property, and others.
