Our Own Stellar Musicians Step into the Solo Spotlight while Dance adds an Unexpected and Exciting Element

ATLANTIC CITY, NJ, UNITED STATES, August 6, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Bay Atlantic Symphony unveils its 2025-2026 concert season where timeless musical treasures meet exciting new collaborations. South Jersey's premier professional orchestra invites audiences to experience beloved works by Beethoven, Haydn and Mozart alongside innovative performances that reimagine the classics in a five-concert series.

Pianist Zhenni Li-Cohen, one of several featured soloists, joins Bay Atlantic Symphony for its 2025–2026 concert season led by Music Director Jed Gaylin. The season opens this fall with a dynamic lineup celebrating classical and contemporary works.

Performances take place at the Guaracini Performing Arts Center at Rowan College of South Jersey in Vineland on Saturdays at 3 p.m. and at 2 p.m. Sundays at Stockton University's Performing Arts Center in Galloway Township.

We have a concert program of incredibly satisfying and deeply moving music.”

Music Director Jed Gaylin

Pianist Zhenni Li-Cohen brings her expressive insight and communicative passion to Mozart's stirring “Piano Concerto No. 24” in the opening concert October 25 and 26. A seasonal musical sampler spanning countries and faiths brings joy to all at the December 13 and 14 holiday concert.

The January 17 and 18 performances feature Bay Atlantic Symphony's own Concertmaster Ruotao Mao with principal oboist Marie Trudeau in solo turns performing the exquisite "Concerto for Violin and Oboe" by Johann Sebastian Bach. The Symphony's Principal Horn player Lyndsie Wilson performs British composer Gordon Jacob's "Horn Concerto."

"We have a concert program of incredibly satisfying and deeply moving music," said Music

Director Jed Gaylin. "Touchstone pieces that have spoken so powerfully to people over the generations are juxtaposed with new and truly engaging works. There is an energy and freshness to each of the programs."

Audiences can save on ticket pricing by being a season subscriber to at least four of the five concerts. Season subscriptions are open and available through the Bay Atlantic Symphony's website: www.bayatlanticsymphony.org. Single tickets will be available in September.
