

FUE and FUT Hair Transplant Surgery on 'The Hair Doctors' Podcast

Dr. Ken Anderson and Dr. Ross Kopelman go head-to-head to answer the question of which hair transplant method actually works better.

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, July 21, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr. Ken Anderson, a globally recognized expert in hair restoration, recently appeared as a guest on “The Hair Doctors” podcast to discuss Follicular Unit Extraction (FUE) and Follicular Unit Transplantation (FUT) techniques. He sat down with Dr. Ross Kopelman, the podcast host, to discuss why mastering both techniques is essential for achieving the best possible results for patients.

FUE vs FUT: Which Hair Transplant Method is Better?

In the episode – “FUE vs. FUT: Which Hair Transplant Method is Better?” – Dr. Anderson and Dr. Kopelman discuss which hair transplant method actually works better. They not only cover real-world surgical experience but also discuss ideal patient profiles and health, long-term graft survival, scar patterns, recovery timelines, and why some surgeons still prefer FUT in some cases. The podcast is a must-watch for anyone considering a hair transplant and who wants honest insights from two leading hair transplant surgeon.

Hair restoration should be a craft, not a commodity. Patients deserve a surgeon who can offer the full range of solutions, not just what’s trendy or easy to sell.”
