

Saw.com Launches New Marketplace, Blog and Enhanced Website

Saw.com launches redesigned marketplace & site and blog, delivering faster, transparent domain buying, selling, appraisals & expert support.

ORLANDO, FL, UNITED STATES, July 22, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Saw.com, the leader in domain name brokerage, proudly announces the launch of its Marketplace, Blog, and redesigned website, built to provide a more trustworthy, transparent, and seamless experience for domain buyers and sellers.

This new platform shows our commitment to transparency and success—whether it's your 1st domain or your 5th, we've built a smoother, smarter experience.”

Jeffrey Gabriel

The new Marketplace will showcase the hundreds of thousands of domains available for sale at www.saw.com, further supported by the website redesign. This represents a major upgrade from the previous version, both visually and functionally. With a completely refreshed look and user-first design, the platform now makes it easier than ever to search, evaluate, and purchase premium domains.

“Our mission has always been to help people make smarter domain decisions,” said Jeffrey Gabriel, Founder of Saw.com. “This new platform reflects our ongoing commitment to transparency, trust, and customer success. Whether you're buying your first domain or building a portfolio, we've built a smoother, smarter experience from start to finish.”

Key Improvements Include:

- Streamlined navigation and simplified domain search
- Expanded TLD support in our domain appraisal tool
- Stronger trust signals, including TXT record verifications and enhanced live support
- Sales landers indexed by Google, boosting visibility for domain listings
- Direct access to expert brokers for faster and personalized communication

Additionally, tens of thousands of buyers visit the platform monthly in search of premium domains and investment opportunities. The new website is designed to better connect them with the right domains or services, faster and more efficiently than ever before.

New Blog Focused on Strategy and Education

As part of the relaunch, Saw.com also introduced a new blog at www.saw.com/blog, featuring content written by domain experts. The blog extends beyond industry updates, providing practical insights on managing domain portfolios, navigating acquisitions, and maximizing long-term value. Whether you're a first-time buyer or a seasoned investor, the blog is designed to help you stay informed and ahead of the curve.

Looking Ahead

The new platform is a reflection of Saw.com's long-term commitment to making domain transactions easier, more transparent, and better supported. By focusing on education, usability, and real human support, the team aims to help buyers and sellers navigate the domain space with greater confidence.
