

Tom's Pest Control Brisbane Safely Removes Possum from Warehouse Ceiling Without Disrupting Operations

Tom's Pest Control Brisbane removes possum from warehouse roof, avoiding damage and disruption. Legal, humane solution with ongoing inspections in place.

BRISBANE, QLD, AUSTRALIA, July 27, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tom's Pest Control Brisbane has resolved a concerning wildlife intrusion at a logistics warehouse in Brisbane's industrial zone. A nesting possum was safely and legally removed from the roof cavity above staff amenities, helping the business avoid property damage, hygiene risks, and fire hazards associated with nocturnal pests.

Unusual Noises Lead to Discovery of Possum Nesting in Roof

The warehouse team contacted Tom's Pest Control after staff began hearing thumping and scratching sounds from the ceiling during early morning shifts. Droppings and urine staining near ceiling panels raised red flags, and there were growing concerns about electrical damage, odour, and operational disruption.

"When possums enter commercial buildings, it can pose serious risks—not just to hygiene but to infrastructure, especially wiring and insulation," said Stefan Barker, spokesperson for Tom's Pest Control. "We needed a solution that was humane, legal, and wouldn't affect the daily operations of the facility."

The case underscores the importance of responsive and ethical wildlife removal Brisbane services, particularly in industrial and warehousing environments.

A Three-Step Plan for Safe Wildlife Management

Following a detailed inspection of the roof space and building perimeter, Tom's Pest Control identified the culprit: a common brushtail possum had entered through a damaged ventilation louvre and built a nest in the insulation.

The team executed a three-phase action plan:

1. Humane Possum Removal

Our licensed and insured technician installed a one-way exit door, allowing the possum to safely leave while preventing it from re-entering. Once we confirmed the area was clear, we moved on to the next steps.

2. Entry Point Repairs

The damaged louvre was repaired and reinforced, and minor roofline sealing was completed to block any secondary access points.

3. Environmental Deterrents

Management was advised to trim back overhanging branches and install motion-activated lighting, both effective deterrents for nocturnal wildlife.

Outcome: Safe Removal and Long-Term Prevention

The possum was removed without harm, and no further activity has been reported since. The facility avoided potential fire hazards from chewed wires and contamination in the workspace. Most importantly, operations continued smoothly with zero downtime.

“Our team ensured the solution was not only compliant with wildlife regulations but also practical for a busy warehouse setting,” Stefan Barker added.
