

Royal Civility Initiative Launches the School of Diplomacy and Leadership

A Kingdom Movement Empowering Global Citizens with Royal Identity, Protocol, and Purpose-Driven Influence.

UNITED STATES , CA, UNITED STATES, July 21, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In a historic and visionary move, the Royal Civility Institute, under the leadership of Duchess Julian Businge, has officially launched the School of Diplomacy & Leadership, a global institution designed to raise royal-minded leaders, diplomats of peace, and legacy-driven change-makers for the 21st century together with the Patron of Royal Civility HRM King Clyde Rivers. This school is not just academic; it is a spiritual and cultural reformation.

A Childhood Memory That Sparked a Global Movement:

The seeds of the Royal Civility School were planted decades ago, in the quiet hills of Tooro.

As a young girl, Duchess Julian Businge would sit silently at the feet of her elders, captivated by their presence. There were no podiums, no microphones, just the power of their words. They spoke with honor, walked with quiet authority, and settled conflicts not with noise, but with wisdom.

In those sacred moments, a truth was etched into her spirit:

"True power is found in civility, and true leadership begins with identity." — Duchess Julian Businge

What she learned there could never be taught in a classroom. It wasn't just tradition, it was legacy.

That legacy has now become a global movement, transforming the wisdom of a small kingdom into a worldwide call for dignified, purpose-driven leadership.

About the Royal Civility School of Diplomacy & Leadership:

The school is built upon timeless principles of civility, kingdom diplomacy, and divine leadership. With a unique blend of biblical wisdom, royal protocols, and global cultural traditions, it offers:

- Certificate and mentorship programs in Diplomacy, Civility, Royal Leadership, and Legacy Building.
- Core text: The Original Diaspora King: Kingdom and Diplomacy Protocols-The Way of Civility by HRM Clyde Rivers & Duchess Julian Businge.
- Global engagement through master-classes Led by HRM King Clyde Rivers, we also have upcoming summits, and partnerships with royal houses, embassies, and cultural ministries.

The School invites participants from all walks of life, traditional royals, youth leaders, diaspora citizens, spiritual influencers, and policymakers to embrace their royal identity and lead with purpose.

Anchored in the Book That's Shaping a Generation:

The school's flagship curriculum draws directly from the newly released and highly acclaimed book:

The Original Diaspora King: Kingdom and Diplomacy Protocols - The Way of Civility.

Authored by HRM Clyde Rivers and Duchess Julian Businge, this foundational text outlines a unified code of nobility, presence, diplomacy, and divine legacy across African and global traditions.

Students will not only study the text, they will embody it.

The Vision:

According to Duchess Julian Businge, "This School is a prophetic response to the chaos of our times. It calls forth royal sons and daughters to lead with honor, restore order, and govern with wisdom."

In a world fractured by pride, conflict, and compromise, the Royal Civility School of Diplomacy is God's answer: a movement that merges spiritual formation, kingdom identity, and real-world diplomatic wisdom to prepare leaders for every sphere — governance, education, faith, media, and cultural heritage.
