Highlighting a foundational technology behind the award, LegalSifter is hosting a webinar on July 29th at 1:00pm EDT to demonstrate how to scale contract review without giving up oversight and how LegalSifter ReviewPro reduces review time to a matter of minutes with unparalleled accuracy.

“We are extremely proud to be recognized for our contract-specific AI built by attorneys and data scientists drawing on years of experience to deliver reliable, fast and accurate redlined results within any Word document,” explained

CEO Eric Hall. “To receive an award from a recognized authority on leadership and innovation in legal technology, is an honor,” he stated.

The annual Legal Tech TAM Awards represent the first data-backed recognition from a network of leading legal organizations that represent the total addressable market (TAM). Awards are determined after thorough review, scoring, and analysis of adoption data collected from verified buyers across the Theorem Marketplace network, which tracks $300 million in global legal software spend. This breadth has made these awards one of the most trusted identifiers of leadership and innovation in legal technology.

“Unlike general-purpose AI tools being retrofitted for legal tasks, ReviewPro is purpose-built by legal experts and paired with our comprehensive library of out-of-the-box playbooks,” Hall continued. “Developed by attorneys and tailored to real-world use cases, these playbooks ensure users can apply consistent, high-quality guidance from day one. This combination of specialized AI and proven playbooks delivers unmatched speed and accuracy while preserving oversight. We invite all members of the legal community to join the webinar and experience the difference for themselves,” Hall added.

To see LegalSifter ReviewPro in action, attend the live demo on July 29th at 1:00pm EDT and learn how ReviewPro works seamlessly inside Microsoft Word to apply consistent, attorney-quality redlines automatically.
