

Just Compete Sports and Team Fidelis are Partnering to Support Suicide Prevention in Kansas

LENEXA, KS, UNITED STATES, July 23, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Just Compete Sports, the parent company of Kansas City NFL FLAG and Girls Play Flag Football, an official league operator of NFL FLAG, has partnered with Team Fidelis to support suicide prevention programs across Kansas. On Saturday, August 16th, Just Compete Sports will host a youth flag football tournament as a fundraiser to support essential mental health and suicide prevention programs. A portion of the tournament proceeds will be donated to Team Fidelis to bolster their suicide prevention efforts.

"At Just Compete, we believe sports have the power to do more than build athletes—they build community, connection, and purpose. Our preseason tournament is about more than competition; it's about creating a space where every young person feels seen, supported, and encouraged. Mental health matters, and we're proud to stand alongside families and partners to bring awareness to suicide prevention and emotional well-being, says Miguel Zepeda, President of Just Compete Sports"

"This partnership with NFL Flag Football is more than just a game; it's a powerful step toward connection, camaraderie, and purpose. By bringing veterans and youth together on the field, we're building bridges between generations, breaking down isolation, and showing what teamwork and community can truly accomplish."

— Daniel Brazzell, Executive Director, Team Fidelis.

Just Compete Sports offers experiential youth sports opportunities in collaboration with major professional sports leagues, such as NFL FLAG, NHL STREET, and MLS GO, all of which are designed to empower youth athletes of all backgrounds to get out and "Just Compete!"
