The Innovation Academy brought together physicians, vendors, and educators to share the latest in clinical, operational, and technological advancements.

Dermatologists are no longer just looking for someone to submit claims—they need real partners who understand how to reduce AR, prevent denials, and make revenue flow more predictably.”

For Inga Ellzey Billing Companies, the event was an opportunity to connect with clients, explore industry trends, and highlight the company's ongoing commitment to revenue cycle management exclusively for dermatology practices.

“This year's Innovation Academy highlighted a trend we've been tracking for some time: dermatologists are no longer just looking for someone to submit claims—they need real partners who understand how to reduce AR, prevent denials, and make revenue flow more predictably,” said a company spokesperson. “We're continuing to lean into what works—proactive AR management, detailed coding audits, and hands-on support from teams who know dermatology billing inside and out.”

With over 25 years of experience serving dermatologists nationwide, Inga Ellzey Billing Companies remains focused on helping practices thrive financially—even in the face of shrinking margins and growing administrative complexity.
