With years of experience in disaster recovery and property restoration, Express Restoration understands that protecting personal and business property goes beyond the cleanup. Their temperature-controlled storage solutions help bridge the gap during restoration, offering peace of mind to homeowners and business owners alike.

These specialized storage units maintain consistent temperature levels to prevent further damage caused by moisture, mold, heat, or freezing conditions. Items such as antiques, sensitive documents, upholstered furniture, and electronics are especially vulnerable to extreme temperatures and benefit significantly from this added layer of protection.

Express Restoration provides secure handling, detailed inventory tracking, and flexible storage durations tailored to each client's specific needs. Whether customers face water or fire damage, undergo remodeling, or simply need off-site storage, the company's temperature-controlled facilities offer a reliable solution.

The new service extends Express Restoration's mission to deliver full-spectrum property protection and recovery solutions. Clients can rely on a seamless, stress-free process from cleanup and restoration to secure storage during otherwise challenging times. Express Restoration also coordinates transportation to and from the storage facility, ensuring that items are carefully packed, moved, and monitored until they can be returned.
