

American Heritage Lending Earns Great Place to Work® Certification for 2025

Recognized by employees for its family-first culture, transparent leadership, and commitment to growth

IRVINE, CA, UNITED STATES, July 31, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- American Heritage Lending (AHL),

To us, this certification isn't just a badge; it reflects the daily experiences our people built together.”

Dave Orloff, CEO of American Heritage Lending

a national mortgage lender specializing in Non-QM and residential transitional lending, today announced it has achieved Great Place to Work® certification for 2025, an honor driven by the candid feedback of its employees who participated in the company's Trust Index™ survey.

“To us, this certification isn't just a badge; it reflects the daily experiences our people have built together,” said Dave Orloff, CEO of American Heritage Lending. “From our annual Roadshow and peer-to-peer AHL Stars recognition program to open-door leadership and clear career paths, our culture is powered by every individual on this team.”

The Great Place to Work Trust Index™ Survey measures employee perceptions across five dimensions of high-trust culture: credibility, respect, fairness, pride, and belonging, using a scientifically validated, 60-statement questionnaire. Organizations that score above the benchmark, indicating roughly seven in ten employees consistently have a positive workplace experience, earn certification each year Great Place To Work®.

What AHL employees had to say:

- Family-First Culture: “I feel supported, like part of the AHL family.”
- Transparent Leadership: “Our leaders walk the talk and keep us in the loop.”
- Growth & Recognition: “I know exactly how to grow here, and my work is noticed.”
- Teamwork That Delivers: “Collaboration is real; no silos, just solutions.”

This certification underscores AHL's ongoing investments in career development & mentorship, well-being & flexibility, and employee recognition.
