

Back-to-back Win: TaxDome Tops Capterra's 2025 Shortlist for Accounting Practice Management

TaxDome named #1 on Capterra's 2025 Shortlist—two years running—for leading the way in accounting practice management software.

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, August 6, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Once again, TaxDome earns recognition as the #1 practice management software, reaffirming its place at the forefront of accounting technology.

TaxDome just made it two in a row. The end-to-end practice management platform trusted by accounting and tax professionals worldwide has been named the #1 practice management software on Capterra's 2025 Shortlist—an achievement that reflects consistent performance, user satisfaction, and rapid global adoption.

Our mission at TaxDome is to build software that accountants and their clients love to use. Today, we're proud to support 30,000+ tax, bookkeeping and accounting professionals across 25+ countries,”

Ilya Radzinsky, Co-founder of TaxDome.

What sets this award apart from others? Capterra's shortlist is based on real feedback from real users—those balancing tax seasons, onboarding clients, managing teams, and still trying to make it home before 9 p.m.

A signal of trust in a crowded field

There's no shortage of software options out there claiming to “streamline” practices. But for many firms, the challenge isn't finding tools—it's finding the right tool that brings everything together. TaxDome continues to earn that trust by solving not just individual problems, but the whole puzzle: communication, automation, billing, workflows, and client experience—all seamlessly integrated into one platform.

“Our mission at TaxDome is to build software that accountants and their clients love to use. Today, we're proud to support 30,000+ tax, bookkeeping and accounting professionals across 25+ countries,” said Ilya Radzinsky, Co-founder of TaxDome.

What makes TaxDome stand out

Capterra's rankings don't rely on hype or paid promotions. They're grounded in verified user reviews, real-time performance data, and key indicators like functionality, ease of use, and support quality. For TaxDome to claim the top spot once again, it wasn't about chasing trends—it was about delivering consistent value where it matters most.

UK firms especially appreciate how the platform supports GDPR-compliant file sharing, adapts to UK tax workflows, and allows for customization. The praise often centers on reliability: the kind of “set it and forget it” automation that frees up hours without micromanagement. One reviewer put it plainly: “This has been an amazing secure portal for me to use to manage my practice. They offer all the features I need to request signatures, store documents by year and project, communicate securely via internal chat, workflows, branded portal, and more.”

Not just software, but a shift in how firms work

This isn't just a win for TaxDome—it's part of a larger shift in how accounting practices operate. More firms are ditching disjointed systems and moving toward fully connected platforms that give them control, flexibility, and room to grow. TaxDome fits naturally into this evolution. Its functionality adapts to how accounting professionals work, offering tools that support digital onboarding, automated workflows, secure client messaging, and firm insights.

In the past year alone, TaxDome has rolled out tailored templates for UK practitioners, introduced enhanced mobile functionality for firms on the go, and expanded integrations with accounting staples like QuickBooks and Xero. And they're not slowing down. The upcoming roadmap includes tools for improved team collaboration and a completely unified client experience.
