From the Back Cover:

The book is part of a series of children’s books called “The Silly Little Kitty Series.” The main character is a small kitten named Maggie. In this book, Maggie hears her sleeping mother purring and wants to learn how she too can purr. Instead of waking her mother, she sets out on an adventure on the farm, visiting other animals with the hope that one of them can teach her how to purr. Each animal she encounters teaches her through rhyme and repetition how they are unique in their own way and cannot teach her how to purr. In the end, Maggie realizes, with the help of her mother’s wisdom, that she always had the ability to purr on her own.
