

10ZiG® Technology Thin & Zero Clients Now Certified for Omnisca Horizon 2503

10ZiG is Rolling out Omnisca Horizon 8 2503 Certifications for its Modernized Thin & Zero Client Endpoint Hardware Full-Service Product Line

PHOENIX, AZ, UNITED STATES, August 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The latest updates of certifications and validations at 10ZiG include the essential 10ZiG Omnisca Horizon 8 2503 rollout, most recently achieved on the 10ZiG 4600q Thin & Zero Client Series, to begin with. Attributed to 10ZiG's nimble in-house Research & Development Group which enables truly unique product excellence via responsive turnaround software updates and enhancements, this is just the first series of a full-service product lineup including traditional, mobile, and all-in-one form factors to be certified, with more following.

With security, access, performance, and simplified management for virtual desktop and applications as the main focuses for Horizon Version 2503, the 10ZiG Omnisca ecosystem is fully in line with these goals and rushed to adopt new competencies including features and enhancements across Horizon, Dynamic Environment Manager (DEM), and App Volumes, as well as key improvements like built-in monitoring capabilities for Unified Access Gateways (UAGs) and Connection Servers, enhanced bandwidth optimization for Linux clients, and simplified remote access with dynamic user assignment. Released as an Extended Service Branch (ESB), Horizon 8 2503 also introduces a new Express Onboarding feature for faster deployments in Horizon Cloud Service next-gen.

10ZiG R&D is rolling out the product-wide Omnisca V2503 Certification as part of its Single Vendor Hardware & Software Vendor Strategy and Omnisca Alliance Partnership, focusing on informing customers of such updates, preventing possible missed deployment deadlines, and from being stuck in old VDI environments. 10ZiG closely follows the release roadmaps of leading
