"Our frameless glass railings are engineered to create open, light-filled spaces while maintaining the durability and safety required for residential and commercial projects," said Nima Ashrafkia, CEO of Grouse Railing.

The systems are available for a variety of applications, including:

Custom Homes & Estates — Tailored designs with options for curved glass, stainless steel, and aluminum hardware.

Commercial Developments & High-Rises — Engineered for compliance with Canadian building codes, suitable for lobbies, rooftop patios, and stairwells.

Condominiums & Residential Communities — Installation options include top mount, fascia mount, and embedded base channels to suit different layouts.

Grouse Railing works closely with developers, architects, and contractors during the design phase to ensure seamless integration of railing systems into large-scale and custom projects.
