“Today’s legal teams are expected to manage discovery across an expanding universe of content sources, from cloud platforms to collaboration tools. Through our partnership with ACEDS, ReVia brings AI-powered data intelligence to help firms unify, govern, and extract insights from unstructured data, transforming how they approach eDiscovery and compliance,” said Frank Perrone, CEO Founder ReVia.

ReVia is an AI-powered platform that enables organizations to unify and manage unstructured data across a wide range of enterprise systems. The company’s technology creates a centralized layer of context-aware knowledge retrieval, making it easier for legal, compliance, and investigative teams to locate and govern information that traditionally resides in silos. By reducing friction in how data is accessed and interpreted, ReVia helps organizations improve their discovery readiness, reduce risk, and accelerate decision-making.

Through the partnership, ReVia will work with ACEDS to better understand the evolving needs of the legal community, participate in educational initiatives, and contribute to industry conversations around the role of artificial intelligence in discovery, governance, and compliance workflows.

“ReVia brings an innovative perspective to enterprise data challenges that many legal professionals are actively trying to solve,” said Maribel Rivera, VP, Strategy and Client Engagement at ACEDS. “We’re excited to welcome them as an Affiliate Partner and look forward to meaningful collaboration with their team and the broader legal community.”

ACEDS and ReVia will both be participating in ILTACON, taking place August 10–14 in National Harbor, Maryland. ReVia is a sponsor of the ACEDS Community Reception, which will be held Tuesday, August 12, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Gaylord National Resort.
