Understanding that planning can often feel overwhelming, Buck-Murphy Funeral Home also specializes in preplanning services that give families the opportunity to make thoughtful decisions ahead of time. This proactive approach not only brings peace of mind to loved ones but also ensures that personal wishes are clearly communicated and respectfully honored.

“Our goal is to help families begin the healing process with services that are truly tailored to their needs,” said Josh Radford, General Manager and Head of Information Technology at Buck-Murphy Funeral Home. “Whether in person or through our online resources, we aim to make every step of the journey easier, more transparent, and more compassionate, guided by our motto: Our Family Serving Yours.”

Technology plays a central role in the funeral home’s modern offerings, providing families with helpful resources for memorial planning, grief support, and ongoing communication. At the same time, the staff never loses sight of the personal touch that defines their service. This balance of innovation and empathy is part of what sets Buck-Murphy apart in the community.

A beloved member of the team, Buddy McFearless, the funeral home’s official grief therapy dog, brings a unique sense of comfort to visitors of all ages. Trained as a therapy dog and gifted with a gentle presence, Buddy has been offering companionship and support to grieving families since 2022. His intuitive understanding of emotions, calming demeanor, and joyful personality make him a cherished part of the healing process for many who walk through the funeral home’s doors.

Buck-Murphy Funeral Home is more than just a service provider. It is a part of the fabric of Idaho Falls and the surrounding region. With a long-standing commitment to meaningful, respectful care, the team continues to support families through grief, remembrance, and celebration with the same dedication that has defined their legacy for over a century.
