

Professional Keynote Speaker Invests in Global Speaking Excellence at Prestigious NSA Conference

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, August 9, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- International keynote speaker, bestselling author, and high-performance business strategist Katie Hornor (often misspelled Horner) has returned from the National Speakers Association (NSA) annual conference and awards banquet, in Scottsdale, Arizona, an elite gathering of the most accomplished voices in professional speaking.

Hornor traveled from her home in Mexico as a member of the Latin American Speakers Association to attend the event, which honors the industry's best through the Speaker Hall of Fame induction and the presentation of the prestigious Cavett Award. She attended as the guest of Ruby Newell-Legner, outgoing president of the Global Speakers Federation, and connected with colleagues from Germany, India, Colombia, Australia, Canada and the USA.

Surrounding myself with the industry's best speakers is important not only because it's inspiring but it sharpens my skills, expands my vision, and equips me to serve audiences with greater impact.”

Katie Hornor

Known for her engaging presentations that blend strategic business insight with memorable flamingo-inspired metaphors, Hornor has delivered over 700 hours on stages internationally, empowering high-achieving leaders to align their work with their values for greater impact. She is bilingual in English and Spanish, a TEDx speaker, and a prolific author.

Her recent attendance at NSA reflects her commitment to continual growth — a quality event hosts value when choosing a speaker who can both inspire and deliver tangible results.
