Uncovering hidden issues to drive better risk assessment

The partnership combines PropertyLens extensive property intelligence with PCMS's cloud-based platform, Atlas, equipping carriers with detailed home history and risk assessment data to make better-informed underwriting decisions and speed up claims processing.

The integration of PCMS and PropertyLens offers real-time access to property data through APIs, facilitating new business underwriting, renewals, and claims investigation processes. PropertyLens reports cover prior insurance claims, ownership history, property features, environmental risks, and neighborhood demographics.

"Our partnership with PropertyLens gives our customers fully integrated, automated property data and faster underwriting decisions, enabling small-to-mid-sized carriers to compete more effectively, reduce risk, and improve profitability," said Mark Goldman, CEO of PCMS.

Bob Frady, CEO of PropertyLens, added, "Insurance carriers are under increasing pressure to improve accuracy while controlling costs. Our collaboration with PCMS puts powerful property insights directly into underwriters' and adjusters' hands, transforming how they assess risk and process claims. This isn't just about better data – it's about enabling better business outcomes."

Those small to mid-size carriers can really benefit from this partnership from enhanced underwriting that leads to more accurate risk assessments, better pricing precision, and fewer losses from adverse selection. In addition, streamlined claims processes, improved customer satisfaction, and data-driven decisions to optimize portfolio performance.
