Cinehealth Festival Director Tracey Yaw said, "I'm thrilled to see such a strong turnout of entries this year, filled with incredible, heartfelt, and thought-provoking content! Congratulations to all the finalists for their outstanding contributions to the health and wellness community. I'm continually inspired by the power of storytelling—how one person's journey can create meaningful connections and impact countless lives."

"Our CineHealth finalists are a testament to the fact that in every health story, we find related human-interest stories," said Jon Cody, CEO of DHN. "Whether it is through DHN's film and TV production capabilities, our unparalleled access to health talent and storytellers, or our distribution relationships with the world's leading media companies, it is our mission to bring these health stories to life. We offer congratulations to our CineHealth finalists and gratitude to our partners at Fierce Pharma for showcasing the best health stories the globe has to offer."
