Bookkeeping Challenges in the E-Commerce Industry

Managing enormous volumes of financial data across numerous platforms and payment processors is a common problem for e-commerce companies. Keeping accurate financial records is difficult, involving everything from monitoring sales income to controlling inventory expenses and processing refunds. Errors may arise in areas like multi-channel reconciliations, sales tax compliance, and expense classification if there are insufficiently efficient mechanisms in place.

Internal teams find it challenging to stay up to date with the quick speed of corporate operations and the regular changes in tax regulations.
