In a statement issued, post-confirming his participation as a jury member, Dr. Mohammed Alsurf (Founder & President of Sustainability Professionals of Saudi Arabia) reflected on the significance of the awards show, "As Saudi Arabia rapidly advances its digital transformation, I'm proud to participate in the DCCI Saudi Awards 2025, which celebrate the innovators building the infrastructure of the future. This event goes beyond recognition—it highlights the direction our industry must take towards sustainability and progress."

Similarly, Saleh Malkawi, Vice President of Sales - Middle East, Turkey, and Central Asia, Uptime Institute expressed, "As Saudi Arabia accelerates its digital journey, the DCCI Saudi Awards 2025 spotlight the pioneers shaping the infrastructure of tomorrow. This is more than recognition—it's a powerful statement about where the future is headed."

Why the DCCI Saudi Awards Matter

Saudi Arabia is witnessing a staggering surge in digital infrastructure. The cloud services market in the Kingdom is booming, expected to soar to $10.28 billion by 2030, reflecting a formidable benchmark. The datacentre market on the other hand is on a rapid expansion as well, projected to reach $7.7 billion by 2033.

Across the Middle East, owing to high AI demand, cloud adoption, strategic investments and Vision 2030, the datacentre capacity is forecasted to triple from 1GW in 2025 to 3.3GW over the next five years.

These figures underscore a clear truth: the visionaries behind these infrastructural leaps are the architects of Saudi Arabia's digital destiny—and they deserve recognition.
