

BRIOTIX HEALTH Virtual Event for Injury Prevention and Employee Productivity

CENTENNIAL, CO, UNITED STATES, August 25, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Briotix Health continues their webinar series this September 23rd with a virtual event focused on injury prevention, self-directed care, and the impact of these services on employee productivity. Bringing together industry experts and on-site providers and clinicians, the Briotix Health webinar series provides attendees insights from the source. The people creating injury prevention strategies, and those implementing them, give their perspectives on what makes a program succeed.

Designing a productive workplace is an intensive process. With strict attention to detail, managing employee workloads, incorporating corporate initiatives, and more, the struggle to handle all of these aspects can be overwhelming. As part of the Briotix Health webinar series, Briotix experts present practical strategies, backed up by real-life results, to enhance your workplace.

This month, Asha Thompson, Associate Client Manager, and Christina Twine, Team Manager, will speak on Industrial Sports Medicine™ successes, and the growing use of software-based assessment tools. A presentation followed by a Q&A session, the event will give attendees actionable steps for their workplace and the opportunity to get answers to inquiries on employee musculoskeletal health.
