

COMMUNITY DEVELOPERS ROUNDTABLE LAUNCHES IN FORT WORTH AS A TOOL FOR ECONOMIC EMPOWERMENT THROUGH REAL ESTATE

Innovan Neighborhoods expands proven developer-led program to Fort Worth, equipping small business real estate leaders with capital, training, and networks.

FORT WORTH, TX, UNITED STATES, August 26, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Community Developers Roundtable (CDR), a program of Innovan Neighborhoods, is officially launching in Fort to champion locally rooted developers as small business leaders who drive economic empowerment through real estate. By equipping developers with access to capital, peer learning, and strategic support, the program unlocks untapped, homegrown opportunities to build stronger neighborhoods and a more inclusive local economy.

The Fort Worth launch event is made possible through the generous support of Texas Wesleyan University as the host event sponsor. The launch will bring together emerging and established non-profit and for-profit real estate developers, community leaders, stakeholders, funders, and partners who share a commitment to equitable and sustainable neighborhood growth.

“Our 2-year pilot program showed that equipping locally rooted developers with resources, networks, and capital, they can drive lasting impact,” said Maggie Parker, founder of Innovan Neighborhoods and the Community Developers Roundtable. “The Fort Worth expansion is about championing and empowering developers who understand the context of their neighborhoods, making them best positioned to build, revitalize, and reinvigorate the places they call home which contributes to the economic vitality of Fort Worth.”
