Real Gardens, Real Results

American Meadows' thriving gardening community shares success stories daily, proving these Pre-Planned Gardens work across diverse climates and landscapes:

"When we bought our house five years ago, the yard was full of hard-to-control spotted spurge and crabgrass," said Ryan Heck, Photographer and Content Creator from Eugene, OR. "Looking for something low-maintenance and beautiful, we turned to an American Meadows' preplanned garden kit. The plants were thoughtfully chosen for size, color, and location, so all we had to do was prepare the space and plant. Two summers later, our front yard is thriving—bursting with color, alive with pollinators, and full from spring through fall. The transformation has been so rewarding that we've since started new backyard projects with the same success."

"We planted American Meadows' Lively Butterfly Meadow Native Pre-Planned Garden in our South Florida yard, and it's been such a joy to watch it come to life!" said Danielle M. Nunez, Creative Content Specialist and Pollinator Advocate of Adventures of Amadeus. "We've been pleasantly surprised to see an overwhelming number of monarch caterpillars; in one day we counted 14! The kit made it easy to create a thriving, beautiful garden that connects us daily with nature and gives our resident pollinators a place to rest their wings.”

Why Fall is the Perfect Time to Plant

Fall is nature’s ideal planting season, offering cooler temperatures, generally more steady rainfall, and shorter days that create the perfect conditions for perennials, shrubs, and wildflowers. Instead of focusing on blooms, plants channel energy into root development, ensuring stronger growth, more vibrant flowers, and long-term success in spring.

American Meadows horticultural experts recommend fall planting for maximum success, emphasizing that autumn’s softer soils and mild weather make it easier and more enjoyable for gardeners. Planting now means you’ll create a low-maintenance, pollinator-friendly garden that thrives year after year with less effort.
