

Strategic Solana Reserve rebrands to Strategic Super Reserve and will launch a Base DTF funded by EnigmaFund

Embracing a multichain strategy, Strategic Solana Reserve by EnigmaFund Venture Capital expands their profitable DTF to Coinbase's Base Chain.

BELIZE CITY, BELIZE, BELIZE, September 2, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Strategic Super Reserve, today announced its rebranding from Strategic Solana Reserve to reflect a new multichain strategy aimed at supporting builders across various blockchain ecosystems.

In the coming weeks, Strategic Super Reserve will launch on the Base chain, partnering initially with projects like Reserve Rights.

This move builds on the project's successful Decentralized Token Folio (DTF) on Solana, which has already deployed 32% of its USDC holdings and achieved profitability despite recent market dips.

Looking ahead, the Strategic Solana Reserve DTF strategy will transition to a full DTF, in which anyone can participate in Q4, enabling non-KYC participation to broaden accessibility.

The Base launch is once again supported by EnigmaFund Venture Capital with inception capital, and will feature community governance, allowing holders to vote on investments.

Notably, 50% of profits generated on Base will be directed toward onchain buys of $SSR, with funds locked for 36 months to ensure long-term stability and growth.

Strategic Super Reserve

Strategic Super Reserve is also exploring further expansions to the BNB Chain and Hyperliquid, with a focus on spotlighting emerging projects and driving ecosystem development.

In addition, the team is developing stealth utilities, with the first entering alpha testing imminently and a public release slated for Q4. Fifty percent of revenues from these utilities will be allocated to funding DTFs across multiple chains.
