

Synchrocure and Isto Biologics Partner to Expand Access to Advanced Regenerative Technologies

OH, UNITED STATES, September 4, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In a move that reflects continued growth in the biologics space, Synchrocure, LLC and Isto Biologics have announced a strategic distribution partnership aimed at enhancing nationwide access to regenerative solutions for musculoskeletal care.

The partnership combines Isto Biologics' innovative orthobiologic offerings—including cellular therapies and advanced bone grafting solutions—with Synchrocure's expanding distribution network and established sales infrastructure. Together, the companies aim to address growing demand for biologic solutions that support improved healing, recovery, and surgical outcomes.

“

We're pleased to partner with Isto to expand access to their biologics and to support the clinicians providing advanced patient care.”

Reza Yazdian, J.D.

For Synchrocure, the collaboration represents a strategic expansion into key segments of orthopedic and spine care. By incorporating Isto's biologic offerings into its portfolio, the company continues to support surgical teams with a range of evidence-based technologies.

“Regenerative medicine continues to be an important and fast-evolving area in patient care,” said Reza Yazdian, J.D., Principal Managing Partner of Synchrocure.

The agreement includes support for co-branded educational initiatives, surgeon training, and targeted product rollouts designed to equip healthcare providers with the tools and knowledge to confidently use advanced biologics in both routine and complex cases.

This partnership also aligns with broader industry trends, as providers increasingly seek biologic solutions that can reduce complication rates, support faster recovery, and offer alternatives to traditional hardware-based interventions.

As both companies look to the future, their shared focus remains clear: elevate standards of care through access, innovation, and partnership.
