Jagadeesh's appearance in Pillars of Power reflects a growing global interest in consciousness-based leadership, where clarity, alignment, and presence are becoming core values across industries. A staggering 89% of Americans attribute stronger employee performance—and 87% better financial performance—to conscious leadership (source: Inc. Magazine). Rather than offering a formula for success, Jagadeesh embodies an invitation to return to inner awareness and integrity as the foundation for impactful living and decision-making.

As part of a broader mission of spiritual service, Jagadeesh continues to offer the signature Divine Light Transmission—a twice weekly global event that is freely accessible to all. This non-verbal, energetic offering is designed to awaken consciousness, catalyze healing, and support spiritually grounded living across diverse cultures and communities.

Thousands around the world—ranging from wellness professionals to business leaders—have reported profound shifts as a result of these transmissions. Experiences include emotional release, renewed vitality, physical recalibration, and spontaneous states of deep inner peace. Unlike traditional teachings or techniques, the Divine Light Transmission is not something to practice or analyze—it is something to receive.

Jagadeesh describes this work as a “living current of Divine-Love-Bliss Consciousness,” one that meets each participant exactly where they are, offering a resonance that aligns with their unique readiness and capacity for integration.

Sessions are held every Tuesday at 9:00 PM EDT and every Saturday at 12:00 pm EDT.

As interest in mental wellness and spiritual growth accelerates, the demand for direct, experience-based modalities has increased significantly. According to Rich Woman Magazine, more than 200 to 500 million people now engage in mindfulness practices, with a 33% surge in demand for emotional well-being services reported in just three years.

True leadership arises from resonance with truth. The Divine Light Transmission awakens that resonance, allowing individuals to lead not from ego, but from the stillness of their highest self.”
