It will grow to $30.74 billion in 2029 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 11.9%.”

The Business Research Company

few years. From a size of $17.48 billion in 2024, it is set to expand to $19.62 billion in 2025, signifying a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12.3%. Factors contributing to its growth during the historic period include the rise in the number of class action lawsuits, increased collaboration between attorneys and financiers, a surge in claims for medical malpractice, the growing application of contingency fee agreements, and heightened media attention towards legal funding.

Anticipated to exponentially rise in the upcoming years, the market size for pre-settlement lawsuit funding is predicted to reach $30.74 billion by 2029, growing at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 11.9%. This increase during the projected period can be ascribed to factors like escalating number of litigations, amplified legal costs, heightened awareness among complainants, long court settlements, and burgeoning of third-party financing firms. Over this forecast period, significant trends such as advancement in AI-powered case assessment, evolution of adaptable funding agreements, innovation in blockchain-instilled contract transparency, progress in worldwide market penetration, and the development of regulatory structures for ethical funding are expected to take center stage.

What Are Key Factors Driving The Demand In The Global Pre-Settlement Lawsuit Funding Market?

The surge in medical malpractice cases is predicted to stimulate the expansion of the pre-settlement lawsuit funding market. Medical malpractice cases are legal complaints lodged by patients who've experienced harm due to negligent or improper actions by healthcare practitioners. The surge in these cases can be attributed to a growing awareness of healthcare rights among patients and the existing legal means to address medical negligence. Pre-settlement lawsuit funding alleviates the financial woes of plaintiffs in malpractice cases during the litigation process, facilitating their survival needs. It ensures financial equilibrium through long legal procedures, enabling plaintiffs to concentrate on recuperation rather than immediate expenditures. For example, per the National Practitioner Data Bank, a malpractice database in the US, 11,638 malpractice payment reports were registered in 2023, a progression from 11,199 in 2022. Hence, the rising frequency of medical malpractice cases acts as a catalyst for the growth of the pre-settlement lawsuit funding market.
