

Artist APT Releases Book, 'An Open Letter To MBZ'

The release of a book detailing a plan to stabilize the shores of the Palm Islands of Dubai from tidal erosion.

PORTLAND, OR, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A book written by Alan Placido Tomlinson (APT) for the President of the United Arab Emirates (MBZ) addressing the sand erosion problem of Dubai's Palm Islands.

A multi-media artist 12,000 kilometers from the UAE claims to know how to stabilize the eroding sands of the Palm Islands. The first chapter of the book details a portion of the plan. It is based on existing technology not currently being applied to sand erosion control. In researching the Palms Islands, the artist learned of not only the sand erosion dilemma, but the stagnation and mosquito problems of the islands. He claims to have a technology-based solution for those issues as well. In chapter two, the artist reveals a plan to bring water to deserts in Africa to create sustainable agriculture. Chapter three is about a plan to collect floating plastic waste on the world's oceans. The artist believes it can be done not only economically but the retrieved plastic could be made into valuable artworks which would finance the further collection of plastic waste. Chapter four is a plan to repurpose the World Islands of Dubai into something more commercially viable. The last chapter is about legacy.

The list of people with a sand erosion control system plan : APT. I am the list.”

No social media participation by the artist at this time. The artist used to maintain a presence on Facebook but left during a time in the US when content was being censored. The censorship initiated by the federal government during the Biden years ended with the change of administrations but the artist is not convinced of a necessity to return.
