GigSky, the pioneer in global travel connectivity solutions, today announced the launch of GigSky One, the industry's first subscription-based travel eSIM data plan that provides high-speed connectivity across more than 120+ countries under a single subscription.

After 15 years of helping travelers avoid high roaming fees, GigSky One represents the company's biggest innovation yet – transforming how frequent travelers, digital nomads, and business professionals stay connected globally through advanced eSIM technology.

Key features of GigSky One include:

One subscription, global coverage: Seamless eSIM connectivity in 120+ countries

Flexible data packages: Adjustable high-speed allowances with no penalties

Unlimited backup data: Up to 1 Mbps after high-speed data is consumed

Multi-device sharing: Hotspot capability for all connected devices

"Traditional travel data options often require managing multiple plans, dealing with roaming costs, or purchasing local SIMs abroad," said Sam King, Chief Operating Officer at GigSky. "GigSky One eliminates all of that friction with one subscription that works the moment you land, in 120+ countries."

Built for the modern traveling workforce, GigSky One ensures users never miss video calls, can upload content on schedule, and respond to urgent messages regardless of location. The eSIM service automatically connects to the best local networks in each destination.

GigSky One is available now through the GigSky app with monthly, quarterly, and annual subscription options.

About GigSky

Founded in 2010, GigSky was invited by Apple to help shape the eSIM standard. When the first eSIM-compatible iPhone launched (the iPhone XS), GigSky was integrated into the ecosystem.

For over 15 years, GigSky has been pioneering global travel connectivity solutions, helping millions of travelers stay connected on land, and at sea, while avoiding expensive roaming charges.
