With DOL Increasing PERM Audits in 2025, BYK Advertising Helps Employers Stay Fully Compliant

Industry-Leading PERM Advertising Agency Supports Businesses Amid Rising Scrutiny of Immigration Recruitment Ads

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, September 10, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) increases the frequency and depth of PERM audits in 2025, employers are facing heightened scrutiny in their immigration advertising and labor certification processes. Jon Byk Advertising, a pioneer in PERM recruitment advertising for nearly six decades, is providing businesses with the compliance expertise they need to navigate this complex regulatory landscape with confidence.

The PERM (Program Electronic Review Management) process is critical for employers sponsoring foreign workers for permanent roles in the United States. In response to shifting labor policies and an increased focus on protecting U.S. workers, the DOL is intensifying its review of PERM applications, especially those that show signs of advertising or documentation irregularities.

According to the DOL's Employment and Training Administration, common audit triggers in 2025 include incomplete documentation, noncompliant ad content, and failure to meet recruitment timelines. These audits can delay or derail immigration sponsorships, resulting in lost time and increased legal exposure for employers.

Jon Byk Advertising is stepping in as a strategic compliance partner. Headquartered in Los Angeles and serving clients nationwide, the agency specializes in creating and placing PERM recruitment ads that are fully aligned with federal requirements. Byk's full-service model includes ad development, media placement, documentation, and consulting to help companies remain audit-ready at every stage of the process.

"We've seen a significant rise in PERM audits this year, and it's clear that employers need more than just ad placement—they need a compliance strategy," said a spokesperson from Jon Byk Advertising. "Our role is to ensure that every campaign meets DOL standards while also supporting our clients through potential audits and documentation requests."

Rising Audit Pressure in 2025
As part of its 2025 enforcement initiative, the DOL has prioritized closer examination of employer recruitment efforts under the PERM program. Employers are now expected to provide extensive proof of compliance, including detailed ad copies, publication confirmations, and screenshots from online job boards.

Audits are particularly focused on:
- Whether job ads were placed per DOL's prescribed timelines and media channels
- The accuracy and transparency of ad content, including wages, qualifications, and job duties
- The integrity and verifiability of supporting documents, such as tear sheets and job order records
