

Field of Screams Marks 33rd Season with Thrills, New Attractions, and Regional Media Partnerships

MOUNTVILLE, PA, UNITED STATES,
September 10, 2025 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Field of Screams, one of the nation's longest-running Halloween Scarefests, is set to open its gates for the 33rd consecutive season on Friday, September 12, in Lancaster County. The iconic attraction — renowned for its bone-chilling atmosphere and legendary haunted hayride — is unveiling new features this year, including a custom-designed welcome sign and a high-octane explosive scene guaranteed to shock and delight visitors.

This week, cast members appeared in full costume on ABC27 News' "Press Run" and TV69 News in Reading, offering audiences a preview of the frightening fun ahead.

What makes Field of Screams unique is the fact that you're coming to our farm. You walk through old buildings, ride our haunted hayride, and experience something no one else can duplicate.”

“We know how to scare people,” said one Field of Screams actor during an interview with ABC27. “What makes Field of Screams unique is the fact that you're coming to our farm. You walk through old buildings, ride our haunted hayride, and experience something no one else can duplicate.”

With more than three decades of fear-inducing fun, Field of Screams continues to set the standard for haunted attractions in the region, drawing visitors from across the Mid-Atlantic each fall.
