The U.S. halal industry is set to reach a new milestone this November with the official launch of Jumla B2B Halal Marketplace, a groundbreaking year-round platform designed to connect halal producers, buyers, and distributors across the globe. Jumla will be formally inaugurated during the 2025 Halal Expo & Summit, November 5–6 at the Tinley Park Convention Center in Chicago.

Built as a complete B2B management solution, Jumla offers halal businesses more than just a marketplace. It provides tools to simplify trade, build trust, and expand into new markets. Key features of the platform include:

“Jumla is more than a marketplace—it’s a bridge connecting halal businesses with opportunities year-round,” said Marwan Ahmad, Founder of Jumla. “Launching at the Halal Expo & Summit allows us to bring this innovation directly to the businesses who need it most.”

As demand for halal products continues to rise across retail, foodservice, healthcare, and education sectors, Jumla provides a trusted gateway for both U.S. and international producers to connect with buyers, streamline logistics, and grow their business in the competitive halal market.

The Halal Expo & Summit is the leading U.S. event for halal businesses, drawing industry leaders, procurement directors, and community advocates to explore opportunities in food, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals, and services.
