EINPresswire.com/ -- Monthler, a new travel platform designed to help international visitors experience Korea beyond typical sightseeing, has officially launched. The platform consolidates information on more than 1,400 domestic travel subsidies and stay-type programs each year, offering travelers authentic opportunities to connect with local communities across the country.

For many visitors, Korea is synonymous with Seoul's bustling shopping districts, K-drama filming locations, and famous landmarks. Monthler provides a deeper alternative: immersive travel experiences that allow participants to live like locals, join community-based initiatives, and explore regions outside the capital.

This is not just sightseeing; it is about living Korea and discovering its unique regional culture.”

for Monthler*

The name “Monthler,” meaning “a person who lives for a month,” reflects its mission to transform the way people explore Korea. From short-term visits to extended workations, the platform provides access to diverse cultural and lifestyle opportunities.

Until now, information about Korea's travel support programs was scattered across multiple institutions and difficult for foreigners to navigate. As a result, many
