and kitchen fixtures, announces the expansion of its frameless shower door for bathtub lineup—engineered to combine modern aesthetics with verified safety features across multiple price points and styles. Design clarity with everyday practicality

Frameless doors visually open up compact bathrooms by eliminating bulky metal frames that can disrupt sightlines and accumulate grime. Clear tempered glass, paired with slim hardware, keeps the focus on the tilework and natural light. The low-profile thresholds, typical of frameless tub doors, contribute to a more approachable step-over height than many legacy framed systems.

Maintenance is equally straightforward. The combination of smooth glass planes and TSUNAMI GUARD's water-repellent properties helps reduce the appearance of water spots when properly maintained. With fewer crevices than framed assemblies, there are also fewer places for soap residue to accumulate. ANZZI publishes care guides for each series, outlining simple cleaning routines and compatible products to support long-term clarity.

Hardware choices allow homeowners to match existing finishes and hardware sets—Matte Black for modern contrast, Brushed Nickel for a warm contemporary tone, or Polished Chrome for a bright, classic look. Sliding configurations offer a space-saving footprint for narrow bath aisles, while hinged models provide a wide, unobstructed entry. In both cases, robust RHINO ALLOY components are engineered for smooth, consistent movement over time.

Safety-first engineering in a clean, frameless profile

Bathtub spaces present unique demands for families and multigenerational households. ANZZI's latest frameless doors address these needs with a minimal, easy-to-clean profile and safety components used throughout the line:

- ANSI-certified tempered DECO-GLASS: Clear, 3/8 in. (approx.) tempered panels are designed for strength and shatter resistance as noted across ANZZI model specifications.
- TSUNAMI GUARD shielding: A dual-sided protective treatment that helps repel water to reduce fogging and visible residue, aiding clarity and maintenance.
- RHINO ALLOY stainless hardware: High-forged, corrosion-resistant components (hinges, handles, towel bars, and sliders) support smooth operation and long-term durability.
- Reversible installation on select models: Symmetrical designs support left- or right-hand installations to accommodate common bathroom layouts.

Professional installation is recommended to ensure proper alignment, sealing, and performance of frameless systems. Care guides, spec sheets, and install manuals are provided on individual product pages.
