reshape the future of intelligent communications infrastructure, MadHat Media, Inc. (MHMI) today announced a strategic alliance with Terranova Defense Solutions Incorporated (TDSI). Under the agreement, Terranova Defense will join MHMI's Board of Directors and appoint up to three members to its advisory board, bringing defense-grade governance and global oversight to MHMI's next-generation intelligent network architecture.

This partnership marks a significant milestone in MHMI's evolution. In parallel, MHMI has secured an equity-based collaboration with a seasoned engineering team known for delivering enterprise-grade systems at scale. This team, forged through years of trusted collaboration with MHMI leadership, brings deep technical expertise and a vested interest in the successful deployment of MHMI's core platform.

“At Terranova Defense Solutions, we champion transformative technologies that secure the future,” said James Castle, Founder and CEO of Terranova Defense Solutions. “Our alliance with MadHat Media is more than governance – it's a strategic commitment to integrity, resilience, and intelligent infrastructure at a global scale. By embedding defense-grade oversight into MHMI's development pathway, we ensure every step forward is accountable, future focused, and built to withstand tomorrow's challenges.”

“This agreement is a milestone for MadHat Media,” said Alexandria B. Lynn, President and Chief Legal Officer of MadHat Media, Inc. “With Terranova joining our board and advisory team, and our engineering partner engaged as equity stakeholders, we are advancing our roadmap with partners fully invested in the completion of our core platform. This alignment allows us to move with speed and certainty into the next phase of development.”

Together, these strategic partnerships form the backbone of MHMI's momentum, combining visionary governance, technical precision, and equity alignment to establish the operational framework for MHMI's next-generation protocol and the platform it power.
