The mounting rate of pet adoptions is stimulating the expansion of the pet travel services market. Animal adoption, which involves acquiring animals from rescue groups rather than buying them from retailers or breeders, is a significant contributor. Pet travel services, which are managed by experts and offer a time-efficient way to transport pets, are increasingly being used by pet owners. For example, as per the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals, a UK-based non-profit organization, there has been a significant rise in the percentage of new pet owners, reaching 38% in 2023, a substantial increase from 34% in 2021 and 36% in 2022. A notable factor in this increase has been the growth in new dog owners in 2023, which stands at 41%, a significant increase from 34% in 2021. Consequently, the pet travel services market is growing due to the rising animal adoption rate.
