A New Model for the Web3 Social Economy

Knowpia's flagship platform Funs.AI is described as a decentralized, AI-powered SocialFi ecosystem that gives creators the ability to monetize their content, maintain ownership of their data, and engage directly with global communities. At the core of this ecosystem is the KNOWP token, which aligns incentives across creators and users.

A Knowpia spokesperson commented:

"Our vision is to reshape how content and social engagement are valued in the digital economy. With Funs.AI, creators and users are rewarded fairly, while investors participate directly in the platform's growth and receive dividends."

By the end of 2025, the company expects to expand Funs.AI's capabilities to include digital asset trading, e-commerce integrations, and AI-driven content creation and social engagement agents.

Strategic Focus on Asia

The decision to host a roadshow in Asia reflects the region's importance as one of the fastest-growing blockchain markets worldwide. By attending prominent events such as Korea Blockchain Week and TOKEN2049, Knowpia aims to raise awareness about its platform, educate potential investors, and build stronger relationships with both regulators and Web3 partners.
