

Red Education and Check Point Software Technologies Win Gold Stevie® Award for Global Partnership of the Year

Cybersecurity training partnership recognized at the 2025 International Business Awards in Lisbon.

SYDNEY, NSW, AUSTRALIA, September 19, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Red Education has been awarded a Gold Stevie® Award in the Global Partnership of the Year category at the 2025 International Business Awards® for its partnership with Check Point Software Technologies. The recognition highlights the success of a decade-long collaboration that has helped to shape cybersecurity training for professionals worldwide.

In addition to the International Business Awards recognition, Red Education was also named a Gold Stevie® Award winner in the Achievement in Certification Programs category at the 10th annual Stevie Awards for Great Employers. This program celebrates the world's best workplaces and the HR professionals, teams, and solution providers who sustain them. Red Education's entry stood out for its measurable learning outcomes and singular focus on certification training, including a 49% increase in student enrolments, global expansion of its instructor team, and consistently high satisfaction ratings from more than 5,000 student reviews.

Mike Baird, CEO of Red Education, said:

"Partnerships are at the heart of everything we do at Red Education. This award with Check Point shows what happens when a world-class product meets world-class training. Both awards reflect our purpose: empowering IT professionals through expert training and helping close the global cybersecurity skills gap."
