

50+ Years Strong: Why Astron Electric Remains Toronto's Go-To Electrical Service Provider

Celebrating 50+ years, Astron Electric has been Toronto's trusted choice for expert electrical services since 1970, founded by Ted Keroglidis.

TORONTO, ON, CANADA, September 26, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Toronto homeowners have trusted Astron Electric for over 50 years, but few know the story behind the company that quietly powers thousands of homes (and even offices) across the city. From carefully rewiring century-old heritage homes to installing cutting-edge smart home electrical systems, Astron Electric has evolved alongside Toronto's changing landscape, always keeping safety, reliability, and client trust at the heart of its electrical services.

A Legacy of Trust and Expertise

That trust passed from one household to the next has kept us connected to Toronto for over 50 years.”

Ted Keroglidis

Founded in 1970 by Ted Keroglidis, Astron Electric began as a small, family-run operation with a single goal: to provide safe, reliable, and transparent electrical solutions for Toronto residents. Over the past five decades, it has grown into one of the city's most trusted electrical service providers, completing thousands of residential and commercial projects.

Meeting Toronto's Evolving Electrical Needs

Toronto's homes and businesses have changed dramatically over the last 50+ years, and Astron Electric has adapted at every step. Many older homes still contain outdated knob-and-tube wiring, creating safety hazards. Astron Electric specializes in careful, code-compliant replacement of these systems while preserving the architectural integrity of heritage properties. Simultaneously, the company has embraced technological advancements, including smart home systems, energy-efficient lighting, and high-capacity panel upgrades to accommodate modern electrical demands. This combination of experience and innovation ensures clients receive solutions that are both safe and future-ready.

A Team Built on Continuous Learning

Astron Electric's success comes from its licensed electricians, who receive ongoing training in the latest technologies and ESA regulations. This dedication to professional development allows the team of licensed electricians to handle everything from quick emergency repairs to complex commercial installations with confidence and precision.

"Over the years, our clients have become more than just customers; they've grown into an extended family," said Ted Keroglidis, President and Founder of Astron Electric. "Most people hear about us from a friend, a neighbor, or a family member who's happy to share their experience. Whether it's updating a home with safer wiring, adding modern lighting, or installing smart features, we've always focused on what matters most at home. That trust passed from one household to the next has kept us connected to Toronto for over 50 years."

Building Long-Term Relationships

Astron Electric emphasizes clear communication, reliability, and transparency, earning the loyalty of thousands of homeowners and businesses throughout Toronto. Many clients return for upgrades, routine maintenance, and emergency support, citing trust, consistency, and professionalism as the reasons they continue to rely on the company.

Adapting to Every Challenge

From historic residences requiring meticulous attention to detail to modern commercial buildings with complex electrical systems, Astron Electric has consistently demonstrated adaptability and technical expertise. Each project is approached with safety, efficiency, and the client's best interest in mind, reflecting the company's commitment to excellence.

Looking Ahead

As Toronto grows and energy needs change, Astron Electric, a trusted Toronto electrical contractor, will continue expanding its services while keeping the core values that have guided its success for more than five decades: trust, professionalism, and client-focused service.
