The program evaluates truck lines by service type and size. In its eighth year, the annual program recognizes carriers that demonstrate exceptional quality and reliability of service, operational excellence, and complementing technology that enhances overall efficiencies and performance, the company said.

In recognition of the key role professional truck drivers play in the nation’s economy, this year C. H. Robinson presented its awards during National Truck Driver Appreciation Week, “underscoring the company’s deep

“We must acknowledge the truck drivers and support staff in our industry without whose dedication we would not be here today,” concluded Bettaway’s Vaccaro.
