“Karen Bass pledged bold action on homelessness, safer streets, and cleaner neighborhoods,” Asaad Alnajjar said. “After years of headlines and ribbon cuttings, the reality on our streets tells a different story, as tents still line sidewalks, neighborhoods remain unsafe, and taxpayers see little return on billions spent,” continued Alnajjar.

City Hall's Shortcomings Under Bass

--Homelessness Unresolved: Despite record spending and new tax revenues under Measure ULA, thousands remain unsheltered with poor coordination between the City, County, and LAHSA.

--Budget Mismanagement: The city now faces a $1 billion deficit for 2025–26, forcing layoffs and service cuts all because City Hall failed to plan responsibly.

--Disaster Readiness Failures: The January 2025 Palisades wildfires exposed serious gaps in emergency planning. City Hall's sluggish response left residents in bureaucratic limbo.

--Transit & Infrastructure Delays: With the 2028 Olympics on the horizon, long-promised transit upgrades remain unfinished.

How Asaad Alnajjar Will Bring A Different Kind of Leadership

Alnajjar pledges to:

- Resolve Homelessness by going to the roots of the issues facing families that are unhoused such as drug addiction/alcoholism, loss of income due to job loss, and providing housing at a reasonable costs to the city
- Fast-track affordable housing approvals and disaster rebuilding permits, cutting through bureaucracy.
- Reform and streamline city agencies to eliminate duplication by balancing the budget ensuring audits are completed and action is taken to reduce waste without sacrificing critical services.
- Strengthen wildfire prevention and disaster readiness with modernized systems and well planned effective community-based response plans. Invest equitably in transit and infrastructure so all neighborhoods and not just downtown will see results and will be prepared for disasters, as well as the 2028 Olympics.
- Empower LA's 99 Neighborhood Councils to bridge the gap to City Hall, giving communities a stronger, fearless voice.

"Los Angeles can't afford another four years of photo ops, incompetence, and half-measures," Alnajjar said. "We need immediate results not excuses. In 2026, voters of Los Angeles will be able to choose true leadership that will deliver results with accountability, not just a photo ops Mayor."
