"I'm grateful for the opportunity to join the Executive Committee at ELSA. The organisation has implemented several new initiatives in recent years and is making a difference in terms of providing education about life settlements to investors. I am eager to support these efforts," said Pellegrini.

Brian Casey, Partner at Troutman Pepper Locke, has been elected to serve for a fresh three-year term; his current term expires at the end of the year.

"Having been a part of the leadership group in recent years, I've seen first-hand how engaged the members are in respect of advancing ELSA's aims. I'm pleased to be able to continue that work and support ELSA for another three years," added Casey.
