

Ukraine War Views: U.S. Consensus vs. Partisan Rifts in ActiVote Poll

ActiVote / AllSides poll reveals 72% reject Russia's claims to Ukraine. The left pushes NATO, while the right seeks peace talks.

BOSTON, MA, UNITED STATES,
September 23, 2025 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- ActiVote, in collaboration with AllSides, today released the findings of a comprehensive survey exploring American attitudes toward the Russia-Ukraine conflict. Conducted in September 2025, the poll surveyed over 2,000 respondents per question on average, revealing significant consensus on some issues while highlighting stark partisan divides on others.

The survey provides a detailed snapshot of national sentiment, segmented by political leanings: left, moderate left, center, moderate right, and right.

“

This survey underscores the nuanced and often polarized views Americans hold on the Russia-Ukraine conflict. These insights can help inform policymakers and foster informed public discourse.”

Victor Allis, Chief Pollster

Key findings include strong majorities on certain topics:

- 72% of respondents believe Russia has no rightful claim to any of Ukraine's territory.
- 71% support increasing sanctions on Russia.
- 70% agree that Ukraine should lead negotiations with Russia.
- 62% expect a peace deal to involve compromises and/or territorial concessions from both sides.

However, the survey also uncovered deep divisions, particularly along political lines:

- 94% of left-leaning respondents favor providing Ukraine with at least any defensive military aid requested, compared to 92% of right-leaning respondents who prefer limited or no military aid.
- On NATO membership for Ukraine, 74% of the left supports immediate or near-future admission, while 63% of the right opposes it for the foreseeable future or permanently.

- Humanitarian aid sees a plurality (43%) supporting continued provision, but 38% believe no more aid should be given.

The results distill into three distinct narratives:

National Opinion: Russia has no legitimate claim to Ukraine. Continue humanitarian aid but limit military aid and prioritize diplomacy. Maximize sanctions and postpone NATO decisions. Allies, led by Ukraine, should negotiate a compromise soon.

Left Opinion: Russia has no claim to Ukraine. Provide maximum humanitarian and military aid. Impose maximum sanctions and admit Ukraine to NATO immediately. Balance diplomacy and military support for a total Ukrainian victory.

Right Opinion: Russia has little claim to Ukraine. Halt humanitarian and military aid. Reject NATO membership. Maintain current sanctions. Focus on diplomacy for an immediate settlement with compromises or concessions.

The full survey results, including detailed breakdowns by question and political leaning, are available to explore.

Victor Allis

ActiVote

+1 302-307-6047

email us here

Visit us on social media:

Instagram

Facebook

X

Other

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/851734429>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2025 Newsmatics Inc. All Right Reserved.