This is SOS America's second Technology Innovation Center, following the successful launch of its first center in Portland, Oregon.

A Hub for Technology, Business, and Community Impact
The Orlando facility will serve dual purposes:

Technology Innovation Center – a hands-on showroom and support hub where customers can explore sustainable smart technology solutions, including renewable energy and smart city innovations. The center will function as a product demonstration, sales, and customer support center, connecting communities and businesses with state-of-the-art solutions.

Frontline Entrepreneurship Studios – a dynamic co-working space and business incubator designed to empower emerging entrepreneurs. Led by Archbishop Allen Wiggins of Hope Center West, the facility will provide comprehensive business coaching, technology showcases, pitch competitions, and access to funding opportunities.

This initiative represents a powerful partnership between SOS America and Frontline Entrepreneurship Studios, extending both organizations' commitment to empowering local communities, fostering innovation, and driving sustainable economic growth.

"The Orlando Technology Innovation Center is more than a showroom—it's a platform for collaboration, innovation, and impact," said Patrice Tsague, CEO of SOS America. "By partnering with Archbishop Wiggins and Frontline Entrepreneurship Studios, we are equipping Orlando's entrepreneurs and businesses with the tools to thrive in the new economy."

"Frontline Outreach Inc. has always been committed to transforming the lives of children and families within the community," said Archbishop Allen Wiggins. "This partnership with SOS America allows us to expand that mission by creating local jobs, as well as giving local entrepreneurs access to smart technology, mentorship, and resources that will help them launch and grow sustainable businesses for the future."
