

MvVO ART Presents the Sale of 'Madhubala' Elephant Sculpture on Artsy in Support of FOUR PAWS

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES,
September 23, 2025 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- MvVO ART, a New York-based contemporary art platform connecting artists, collectors, brands, and causes, is proud to announce that the Madhubala elephant sculpture will be available for acquisition exclusively through its Artsy gallery. All proceeds will benefit FOUR PAWS, the global animal welfare organization, as part of MvVO ART's pro bono philanthropic initiative.

The life-size sculpture that toured the U.S. this past year as part of the Great Elephant Migration art exhibition was crafted by Indigenous artisans of India's Real Elephant Collective. The artwork is named after Madhubala; an elephant once held in captivity in Pakistan and later rescued and reunited with her sisters by FOUR PAWS. The piece symbolizes resilience, hope, and coexistence with animals.

FOUR PAWS works worldwide to protect animals under direct human influence, rescuing those in need and advocating for long-term solutions that allow humans and animals to live with respect and empathy.

"MvVO ART is honored to support this worthy cause. Our entire team is passionate—about uniting contemporary art with meaningful philanthropy. Supporting FOUR PAWS in finding a permanent home for the Madhubala sculpture is truly the right thing to do, and a testament to the power of art as a force for good,” said Maria van Vlodrop, CEO & Founder of MvVO ART.

“We are proud to collaborate with MvVO ART and share Madhubala’s story through her inspiring sculpture,” said Saryn Chorney, Ambassador Relations Specialist with FOUR PAWS’ Boston-based office. “Uniting art and advocacy sparks curiosity and compassion, and in this case serves as a reminder to protect animals, champion their welfare, and take action.”

The sculpture will be unveiled at Chelsea City Hall on Friday, October 3rd to mark World Animal Day (Saturday, October 4th) and remain on view through the holiday season. Those interested in receiving more information about the unveiling event may contact MvVO ART.
