

Inspire Dental & Orthodontics Opens Garland Office, Bringing Neighborhood-Centered Dentistry to More Families

Dr. Patel and Dr. Paul grew up in Garland, returned home, and built Inspire Dental around people—not profits. Their blueprint is reshaping local care.

EINPresswire.com/ -- Inspire Dental & Orthodontics has announced the opening of its new Garland office, marking another step in the practice's growth across North Texas. The new location builds on a community-first approach that began years ago when two Garland high school friends, Dr. Darshan Patel and Dr. John Paul, decided to return home and serve the neighborhoods where they grew up.

As teenagers in Garland, Patel and Paul saw how families often struggled to access reliable dental care. Working parents found it difficult to make weekday appointments, affordability was always a concern, and many dental visits felt rushed or impersonal. These early experiences shaped their vision for the kind of practice they wanted to create.

We didn't want to build just dental offices. We wanted to build places that feel like part of the neighborhood.”

Dr. John Paul

Both went on to attend The University of Texas at Austin before completing their dental degrees. When it came time to choose where to build their careers, they knew they wanted to come back to Garland and nearby communities.

“Growing up here, we saw firsthand how underserved families were,” said Dr. Patel. “We knew that if we ever had the chance, we wanted to create something different, something designed around the people, not the other way around.”

That vision became Inspire Dental & Orthodontics. The blueprint was simple but powerful:

Flexible hours and Saturday appointments so working families would not have to choose between jobs and health

Bilingual teams to make care welcoming and accessible

Warm, kid-friendly designs with calming colors and safe, open layouts

Trusted expertise and friendly care from doctors who trained at top schools but never lost touch with their roots

Privately owned practices that prioritize patients over profits, unlike corporate chains that focus on numbers

“Every decision we made, right down to the colors on the walls, was about making families feel at ease,” said Dr. Paul. “We did not want to build just dental offices. We wanted to build places that feel like part of the neighborhood.”

Families across Garland, Mesquite, and Balch Springs responded. Reviews quickly grew into the thousands, with patients praising the staff’s friendliness, the comfort of the offices, and the doctors’ ability to explain treatment clearly. For Patel and Paul, those reviews are not just numbers. They are proof that listening and adapting to community needs works.

With the opening of the Garland office, Inspire Dental is expanding while staying true to its original principles: stay local, stay personal, and always put people first.

The Garland office is now open and accepting new patients. Families can expect the same welcoming experience Inspire is known for, including bilingual staff, Saturday hours, and a full range of dental and orthodontic services for all ages. Inspire Dental is in-network with most major insurance plans and proudly accepts CHIP and Medicaid, ensuring care remains affordable and accessible for every household.

Appointments are available now at the Garland office, with convenient booking online or by phone. Families are encouraged to schedule early to experience firsthand why Inspire Dental has become a trusted name in community care.
